BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

AMERICANS, as Lord Northcliffe remarked, are a "docile people and stand almost anything. The prohibition-gangster incident in New York City ought to arouse the beer gangs in Harlem. Three beer gangs in Harlem had a misunderstanding in beer circles, and decided to shoot it out. In the course of events five innocent children were shot down. One is dead, two more may die.

Prohibition might be a great thing, if it would work. But it is a big IF.

And meanwhile, with speakeasies on every block in New York City, gangsters shooting it out and killing children, the people eventually may become impatient.

The dead child, his spine shattered by a bullet that entered the back, was 5 years old. His brother, Salvatore Vangali, is in the Fifth Avenue hospital. Surgeons have taken five bullets from his body.

Little Michael Cevilaqua, 3 years old, has had two bullets taken from his back. The shooting occurred in a city block occupied largely by Sicilians.

All refused to give any evidence, knowing that to talk would mean death.

Crime, well organized, knows how to protect itself. Our so-called "civilized society" does not know how to protect itself.

LLOYD GEORGE, after a dangerous operation, was said yesterday to be near death.

Sixty-eight years old, Lloyd George is a man of unusual strength, despite the great burdens that he has carried for more than 30 years, and his strong will should help him.

If the worst happens, Great Britain will realize, a little later, what it owes to Lloyd George.

Without Lloyd George and Clemenceau, Germany would have won the war, and there would probably be a young Hohenzollern sitting on the British throne today.

As chancellor of the British exchequer, Lloyd George provided money for the war. As minister of munitions he supplied munitions for the war.

And as a prime minister he won the war.

YOU WILL SUCCEED if you have what people want, and let them know you have it.

Mr. Tom May, like other able merchants, understands that.

He began, last Saturday, a sale to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of what is now the May store in Los Angeles, and did the biggest day's business in all the 50 years, not excepting recent boom years.

In addition to having the goods, he really advertised them.

PRESIDENT HOOVER continues to protest against reduction in wages, particularly among laborers, mechanics and others employed in industries.

Their payrolls represent the backbone of national prosperity, thousands of millions of dollars a year.

The United States Steel Corporation, reducing dividends and salaries, respects President Hoover's wishes as regards labor in the mills, but cuts the salaries of the clerical force.

The example was followed yesterday afternoon by the Delaware & Hudson railroad, first of the big railroads to make wholesale pay cuts. Ten per cent is cut off of every salary, from the president, Mr. Loree, down to the division superintendents. This has not hap-

Ohio Bank Bandits Escape with $40,000

GUNMEN STAGE DARING HOLDUP AT BREWSTER

Three Persons Held at Guns' Points While Robbers Rifle Vaults.

MONEY WAS FOR PAYROLL

Unmasked Trio Flee Toward Massillon; Citizens' Posses Start Pursuit.

By The Associated Press

CANTON, O. July 30 — Three unmasked robbers, attired as railroad workmen, robbed the Brewster Banking company in southwestern Stark county, of $40,000 in currency and bonds shortly after 10 a. m. today. Two of the men were armed with pistols and the other carried a machine gun.

Included in the loot was money to meet the payroll of the Wheeling & Lake Erie railroad shops and offices. The railroad pays by check and the bank had money ready to cash them.

The bandit trio fled toward Massillon after the holdup in a blue Buick sedan. Police from Canton and Massillon and sheriff's deputies from Canton headed for Beach City to head off the trio. A posse of Brewster citizens armed with shotguns was in pursuit.

Three Persons in Bank

George Bixler, cashier, Miss Odessa Moser, a bookkeeper and William Youngman, a customer, were lined against the side of the bank with their faces to the wall while the robbers looted the cashier's cage and the vaults.

Official said that none of the safety deposit boxes had been opened.

A car answering the description of that used by the bandits was sighted passing through Canton at 11:05 a. m. in the direction of Akron. J. C. Neely, who reported seeing the car, said it contained three men and was traveling at a terrific rate of speed on Cleveland avenue N. W., which connects with the Akron road.

In the meantime authorities in Carroll, Tuscarawas, Holmes, Wayne and Stark counties were patrolling the roads in an effort to pick up the trail of the car. A good description of the machine was furnished to police by George Bixler, cashier of the bank, who ignored a warning from the bandits to remain inside the bank for five minutes after they left.

Bixler said the car was headed south when it left Brewster but he was unable to get the license number.

FEDERATION DRAFTS EMPLOYMENT PLAN

Labor Organization Has Program Intended To Help Solve Problem.

By United Press

WASHINGTON, July 30 — Organized labor has stepped into the labor situation in an effort to prevent the impact of reduced industrial earnings from falling with undue weight upon the shoulders of the employe-consumer.

The American Federation of Labor today came forward with a program it believes would prevent suffering next winter due to unemployment. This program calls for: 1. Shortening of work hours to distribute employment. 2. Employment guarantees; promises from management that those now employed will be held through the winter so that fear of unemployment which tends to encourage hoarding could be dissipated. 3. Creation of more work, public and private, even chores around homes. 4. Collection of funds for relief, both municipal and private.

The Federation's proposal for a shorter work week drew favorable comment from William N. Doak, secretary of labor. He said he favored a five-day week and six-hour day and said the shorter work period "may be the solution" of the unemployment difficulty. But the labor department can do nothing about the situation, Doak added.

The Federation made no reference to the question of reducing wages against which the White House is continuing its warfare.

In proposing its program, the Federation declared unemployment is "growing more critical" despite a seasonal improvement due to the harvest season.

Ford Observes 68th Birthday in Good Health

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, July 30—Time, like fortune, has been kind to Henry Ford.

So said his friends today as the motor magnate observed his sixty-eighth birthday. Ford did not "celebrate" his birthday, for it was "just another day" to him. Apparently in the best of health and spirits, he spent most of the day in the gardens of his estate, "Fairlane," at Dearborn, or in the engineering laboratory of his plant, "just across the road."

Henry Ford

Messages of greeting came to Mr. Ford from various parts of the world. They came from Thomas A. Edison, the inventor; from Harvey S. Firestone, tire manufacturer, and from scores of others. Edison and Firestone are Ford's closest friends.

The friends who said that time had been kind to Henry Ford found plenty of substantiation in the automobile maker's appearance. True, his face is heavily lined but it always seems to have been so. The slender, wiry figure, straight carriage, alert footstep and energetic movement, and the twinkle that seemingly never leaves his eyes, told of excellent health and spirits.

Ford was born on a farm not far distant from "Fairlane." The homestead is much as it was when Ford was born there.

The farm is only a part of the hundreds of acres of land that belong to Henry Ford on the southwestern outskirts of Detroit.

BUCYRUS MAN MEETS DEATH

CAR RUNS INTO TRUCK

Other Occupants Suffer Minor Injuries; Were Returning from Cleveland.

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, July 30—Believed to have fallen asleep at the wheel of his automobile while driving early today, Herman F. Bohrman, 24, local soft drink stand proprietor, was instantly killed when his car plowed into a truck at Chatfield. He suffered a crushed skull and chest.

Miss Enid Campbell, nurse at Monnett Memorial hospital, who was with Bohrman, is in the hospital suffering from severe cuts on her arm and bruises. Miss Florence Wentz, also a nurse at the hospital, and Charles Margraff of Lykens, other occupants of the car, escaped with minor bruises. The car was demolished.

Returning from Cleveland

The accident occurred about 3 a. m. when the two couples were returning from Cleveland where they had spent the evening. Miss Wentz and Margraff were riding in the rumble seat of the car and stated they were asleep when the accident occurred. Miss Campbell and her companion were brought to Monnett hospital by Fred Shealy, a farmer residing near the scene of the accident.

The truck with which the car collided, was the property of the Archer Trucking Co., of Ft. Wayne, Ind., and was driven by L. E. Dunbauld of that city.

Former High School Student

Mr. Bohrman is survived by his father, William Bohrman of north Sandusky street, and one brother, Henry, at home. He attended the Bucyrus High school and for the last two years had operated the soft drink parlor here.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

Ohio Court Rules Garden Produce Not Acceptable for Alimony.

By United Press

ELYRIA, O., July 30—Turnips and cabbage are no legal substitute for money in payment of alimony, it was held in a common pleas court ruling here today.

Howard Walker, 26, had been assessed alimony of $15 a week when his wife, Viola, was granted a divorce.

"When strawberries are in season, he brings them," she complained to the court. "When turnips are in he brings them, and cabbage."

Walker admitted he picked his alimony from his truck patch.

"I had no money," he said. "I didn't want her to go hungry."

"Five days in county jail for contempt of court," ruled the bench.

CAPONE ASKS TO WITHDRAW PLEA OF GUILTY

Defense Counsel Asserts U. S. Attorney General Promised Leniency.

Chicago Hoodlum Announces "Permanent Retirement from All Rackets."

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 30—Protesting that the attorney general of the United States had sanctioned an agreemen between Alphonse Capone and the government that leniency would be recommended if the gang chief pleaded guilty to income tax evasion and prohibition conspiracy, Attorney Michael Ahern moved in federal court today to withdraw Capone's plea of guilty.

During the morning court session, Judge James H. Wilkerson said the court had no power to bargain with a defendant and that Capone must take the witness stand if he would ask leniency.

Judge Wilkerson said he was not sure the withdrawal of the plea was proper and called upon George E. Q. Johnson, U. S. district attorney, to state before the court he facts of any pre-trial agreement between Capone and the government.

Sentencing of Capone had been expected at today's court session.

No Compromise, Says Judge

The judge said that "any agreement the defense and prosecution might have made," had no binding influence upon the court, and asserted that the power to compromise in a case involving criminal liability was not vested in the courts.

Judge Wilkerson explained that he knew nothing of the facts in the case, which charge the gang leader with 5,000 separate offenses against the prohibition act and evasion of taxes on an income of more than $1,000,000. He could only perform his duty, he said, by hear-

F. O. Rudolph, for six years associated with the Marion Y. M. C. A., will sever his connections with the Y Aug. 1, it was announced today. The position of physical director which Rudolph has occupied several years has been abolished by the board in a retrenchment program resulting from a 22 per cent decrease in the Y. M. C. He was a membership worker for the local Y for some time, later becoming physical director. He coached the 1931 state volleyball champions, and has been active in all sports at the Y. He has been in charge of the summer camps conducted at Camp Ubler near Hepburn by the Y. M. C. A.

Rudolph has been an active worker in the Central Christian church. He is a native of Germany. He has not announced his plans for the future.

FORCE OF SLEUTHS SEEK CHILD KILLERS

50 Italian Policemen, Disguised, Hunt for Trail of Gunmen.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, July 30—Fifty policemen of Italian extraction, disguised as workmen or men-about-town, strolled the streets of Harlem's "Little Italy" today, their ears open for a clue to the child slaying on Tuesday.

The police department, urged on by an aroused citizenry and newspaper rewards totaling $13,000, sent every available man to ferret out each minute clue that might lead to the gangster gunmen who took the life of one child and sent four others to the hospital in trying to shoot down their intended victim, a still unidentified man.

Detectives were hampered by the reticence of a grief-stricken Sicilian community, yet they doggedly kept on, bringing in suspects.

Whether a beer feud or a policy gaming racket was responsible for the shooting could not be ascertained.

FLIERS POSE JUST BEFORE SEA HOP

Here are pictured four more fliers who have succeeded in joining the list of successful transatlantic air voyagers. The photograph was taken shortly before their two planes took off from Floyd Bennett airport, New York, within 18 minutes of each other. Hugh Herndon Jr., and Clyde Pangborn are on a round-the-world trip seeking to beat the Post-Gatty record, and Russell Boardman and John Polando have already made a record by completing a 5,000-mile non-stop flight to Istanbul, Turkey. In the picture, left to right, are Boardman, Polando, Guiseppe Bellanca, maker of the planes, Dr. James S. Kimball, government meteorologist, Pangborn and Herndon.

MARION AGAIN AT MERCY OF HOT SUN

Relief Brought by Clouds Dispersed as Mercury Hits 90; Humidity Adds to Suffering.

Cloudy weather which shielded Marion from the sun yesterday and held local temperatures below the 90 mark failed to develop into thundershows last night as forecast by weathermen. Marion was again at the mercy of the sun today. At noon the thermometer registered 90 degrees.

Cloudy Weather Predicted

Relief was forecast again this morning by official weathermen, who predict that cloudy weather Friday and thundershowers Friday night will break up the heat wave now in its fifth day.

Dropping 16 degrees from yesterday's high mark of 89, the mercury last night registered a low of 73 degrees. High humidity helped make the weather more uncomfortable. A year ago the temperatures varied between a high of 87 and a low of 57.

The entire country, save for the northwest, enjoyed at least temporary relief from soaring temperatures today.

Not only were inhabitants suffering in this section, but the corn crops were firing, and an alarming danger of drouth was reported, Associated Press reports said.

20 More Die

Deaths attributable to the heat in Pennsylvania, Kentucky, Maryland, New York and surrounding states were set at 20.

A severe rain and hurricane through central Vermont knocked power lines out and cluttered the highways with wreckage. Violent winds prevailed in New York and Maine. In Bridgeton, Me., the wind destroyed all the sleeping tents at three summer camps.

Woman, 70, in County Jail on Liquor Charge

Whitehaired and calm, a picture of an old fashioned grandmother, Mrs. Flora A. Lama, 70, of 169 Dix avenue, faced Municipal Judge W. R. Martin this morning on a charge of illegal possession of liquor and upon her plea of guilty was given a fine of $200 and costs. She was unable to pay the fine and was taken to the county jail pending help from her son and son-in-law with whom she lives.

Made Victim

That she was a willing victim of a plan to have her assume the ownership of 375 pint bottles of beer found at her home by the police in a raid last night, believing that her age would incite the sympathy of the court, was the belief expressed by Judge Martin. He gave this as the reason for the heavy fine.

"It is common in cases like this," Judge Martin said, "to have old people, cripples or the infirm assume the responsibility, believing that their age or condition will prompt leniency on the part of the court."

Find Bottles Open

The aged woman told the police the beer was her property. She was not taken to police headquarters last night, out of respect for her age, but was ordered to appear in court this morning. In admitting the ownership of the beer this morning, Mrs. Lama told the court she did not think it was intoxicating. Police said customers had been served out of 10 quart and 10 pint bottles which they found opened. Complaints had been received by the police of the sale of beer at the Lama home.

Lloyd George Condition Reported Satisfactory

By The Associated Press

LONDON, July 30—An official statement made public today said that David Lloyd-George "passed a restful night and his strength is well maintained. His condition so far continues satisfactory."

Since the days when the nation watched anxiously for news from the bedside of King George, no sickroom has been the focus of so much interest and sympathy as Lloyd George's.

LINDBERGHS READY FOR OTTAWA HOP

Take-Off Set for Today After Visit with Colonel's Parents-in-Law.

By The Associated Press

NORTH HAVEN, Me., July 30—After a night spent with their infant son, Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh today were ready to take off on the next hop of their vacation trip to the Orient with Ottawa the first scheduled stop.

A final check of the radio equipment and fueling of the fast monoplane which rested in a stretch of water between the Islands of North Haven and Vinal Haven was all that remained to be done. The couple hoped to get away by noon today.

The Lindberghs landed in mid-afternoon yesterday after a flight of two hours, 22 minutes from North Beach, N. Y., where they had been halted by radio trouble.

They were met by Senator and Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, parents of Mrs. Lindbergh, who cruised out to the plane in the Mouette, honeymoon yacht of the flying colonel.

The flier and his wife said they had an uneventful trip from North Beach, during which they tested the radio on which they will depend for communication in their projected tour of the orient.

RECORD MADE IN 5,000-MILE NON-STOP TRIP

Boardman and Polando Complete Long Voyage to Turkey.

TIME SET AT 49 HOURS

Pangborn and Herndon, on Trip Around World, Head for Moscow Today.

Four more American aviators have joined the ranks of those making successful transatlantic flights, two of them marked up a new non-stop distance record in doing so and the other two are trying to outdo the Post and Gatty around-the-world mark.

The four are Russell Boardman and John Polando, who completed a flight from New York to Istanbul, Turkey, this morning, a distance of approximately 5,000 miles, and Clyde Pangborn and Hugh Herndon, who landed in Wales last night and today resumed their around-the-world voyage.

CLAIM WORLD'S RECORD

Boardman and Polando Complete Long Flight to Turkey

By The Associated Press

ISTANBUL, Turkey, July 30 — Claiming a new world's non-stop distance record, Russell Boardman and John Polando brought their transatlantic monoplane Cape Cod down at the airport here at 1:20 p. m. (6:20 a. m. Marion time) today.

In the 49 hours and 20 minutes since they took off from Floyd Bennett field New York, approximately 5,000 miles away, on Tuesday morning they had been sighted only once. That was over Newfoundland just before they headed across the Atlantic. The previous record was 4,901 miles made in a flight from Paris to China by Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte.

Grinning broadly and shaking their own hands above their heads, they climbed out of their sturdy plane while a great crowd, among them most of the members of the American colony, cheered.

Ambassador Joseph C. Grew gave them a hand out of the cockpit and introduced them to the governor of Istanbul. A squad of Turkish police presented arms during the brief ceremony.

Trip Over Alps Hardest

"We are very happy at having accomplished our purpose of beating the world's non-stop record," Boardman told the Associated Press correspondent. "It was a fine trip. The hardest part of the trip was last night, flying over the Alps," he said.

Both men were in fine spirits and in good physical condition. They seemed to be momentarily stunned when the drone of the motors to which they had listened for so long, stopped, but they recovered quickly.

With 728 gallons of gasoline in their tanks, Boardman and Polando rolled their black and yellow Bellanca monoplane "Cape Cod" to the runway at Floyd Bennett field a few minutes ahead of Herndon and Pangborn, fliers trying for a new round-world flight record.

The flight was conceived with the object of establishing a new long-distance non-stop record for heavier-than-air machines, and in flying to Istanbul, Turkey, this object has been accomplished.

Both from Boston

Boardman is from Boston. He is 33 years old, and has been flying for 10 years. Polando is 27, married and employed by the Eastcoast Aircraft company of Boston.

The plane used by Boardman and Polando was like that of Hugh Herndon, Jr., and Clyde Pangborn, a Bellanca monoplane. It is powered by a 300-horsepower Wright whirlwind motor.

OFF FOR MOSCOW

Pangborn and Herndon Continue World Flight.

By The Associated Press

CROYDON, Eng., July 30—Clyde Pangborn and Hugh Herndon, Jr., who landed their transatlantic monoplane in Wales last night and went on here this morning, took off for Moscow, their original objective, at 2:11 p. m. today (9:11 a. m. Marion time).

The take-off was nearly six hours after their arrival from Wales.

They expect to make Berlin within four or five hours, stop there to refuel, and continue to Moscow, if the weather is good, arriving there sometime early Friday morning.

Herndon supervised the refueling here this morning while Pangborn caught up on his sleep. Then they had luncheon together, with Dixon Boardman, Herndon's stepfather, as their guest.

After luncheon they posed for the movie men and were off. The

Chance To Dig

(WIH Rogers Special)

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., July 30—Been reading of our army survey of a new canal by Col. Dan Sultan, but what you haven't read is the wonderful work that he and his crew did during the Nicaragua earthquake.

He moved in with his whole outfit, among which were some splendid doctors, and they worked day and night there. They and the marines were in the right place at the right time that time.

He explained the canal to me down there. Folks that like to dig canals, there is a good place to dig.

One there cost $700,000,000, but Lord, the way we are going, what's $700,000,000 in buck for us.

We are sunk anyhow, so let's get a series of canals, then save the best one.

LINCOLN WILDCATS LEAD Y. M. C. A. TEAMS

North Enders Stay Out in Front After Games at Willow Grounds.

The Lincoln Wildcats continue to be out in front among the Y. M. C. A. playground teams after the inter-playground contest held Wednesday at the Willow street diamonds. Two of the features of the morning's play were the hitting of two home runs by Russell Harrold for Willow street in the first game and the game between Willow and the Shovel Red Sox which went two extra innings to play off a tie.

In the first game, the Lincoln Wildcats defeated the Willow Giants 12 to 4, despite Harrold's home runs. The circuit blows were not as effective as they might have been, for only one man was on base when the first one was hit, and none on for the second. Batteries for this game were Predmore and Conroy for the victors, and Cheney and Murphy for Willow street. The second game brought together the Lincoln Yanks and the Shovel Red Sox, with the Yanks victorious, 9 to 4. Batteries were T. Caprino and C. Caprino for Lincoln and Ruby and Leedom for the Shovel.

The third game, played between the Shovel Red Sox and the Willow Giants, was stretched two extra innings to the ninth to break the tie. The game ended 14 to 12 in favor of the Red Sox. Willow was leading 10 to 3 in the sixth when Ruby hit a home run with three men on bases, demoralizing the opposition. Batteries were Penney, Ruby and Leedom for the Sox, and Schaadt and Hochstetter for Willow street.

The standings:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Lincoln Wildcats	2	0	1.000
Lincoln Midgets	2	0	1.000
All Stars	1	0	1.000
Lincoln Yanks	2	1	.667
Willow Giants	1	3	.250
Shovel Red Sox	1	3	.250

This particular occasion was the presentation of the abbey to the Lord Mayor and the citizens of Nottingham. M. Venizelos made the presentation speech.

The Cubs could make no headway [illegible] against Ray Benge's hurling and got only five scattered hits.

The Cardinals also ran into a [illegible] shutout with Ed Brandt doing the hurling to give the Boston Braves a 3 to 0 victory. It did not however seriously damage the Cards pennant hopes for they held an eight game lead over the Giants. The Brooklyn Robins, slipping slowly out of the race ran into another setback at the hands of the Cincinnati Reds. They lost a 2 to 1 decision as Silas Johnson, Cincinnati ace, outpitched Babe Phelps.

Fine pitching by Roy Mahaffey and Jimmy Foxx's twentieth home run combined to give the Philadelphia Athletics a 4 to 2 victory over the St. Louis Browns and to increase their margin in the American league pennant chase to 12 games.

Washington, closest rival of the world's champions, found Wes Ferrell ace of the Cleveland mound staff a bit too much and took a 6 to 0 beating.

Babe Ruth lined his twenty-eighth homer of the season into the right field bleachers at the Yankee stadium as the feature of New York's 10 to 4 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

The Boston Red Sox and Detroit Tigers divided their closing double header. Boston won the first game 5 to 4 in 10 innings as Earl Webb's only hit drove in the winning run. Detroit attacked Lloyd Kline in the early innings of the second and stood off the Red Sox late rallies to win 8 to 6.

MILWAUKEE BREAKS SAINTS' WIN STREAK

Caldwell Allows Leaders Only Five Scattered Hits; Columbus Beaten.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 30—Milwaukee provided itself and the rest of the American association trailers some breathing space finally by snapping St. Paul's latest winning streak.

The end of St. Paul's newest romp came yesterday when Caldwell of the Brewers allowed only five scattered hits, fielded and helped bat his mates to a 4 to 1 victory over the league leaders.

Louisville, the runner-up in the pennant race, gained a full game on the high flying Saints by crushing Toledo 12 to 3, in a heavy hitting game.

In another heavy hitting game, Kansas City turned back Minneapolis 11 to 8. The Millers cracked out 19 hits to Kansas City's 13 but the Blues got their safeties at more crucial moments.

Indianapolis outlasted Columbus to win still another hitting festival, 15 to 8 in their night game. The victory moved the Indians into a tie with the Red Birds for fourth place.

EXPECT 200 HORSES AT SHORT SHIP MEET

Pilots To Bring Charges Here from Toledo Races; 30 Now at Fairground.

All present indications point to a record field of entries for the five night meeting of the Ohio Short Ship harness races here next week. Secretary Frank Foster of the local racing association returned yesterday from Toledo where the horses are now racing and announced that practically every horse running there this week will be shipped here for the local meeting. About 30 horses are already quartered and in training at the Fairground. There are expected to be approximately 200 horses here next week.

The installation of the lighting system is progressing rapidly at the oval. It is expected that the first test of the lights will be made Saturday night. It was first announced for Friday but difficulties of construction have slowed the work down to a minor extent.

The same system of starting the races will be used this meeting as was used in the earlier meeting this summer. Steve Phillips genial starter of Xenia, Ohio, will get the races under way with the aid of the patented barrier bearing his name. Phillips had unusual success in starting the horses with this barrier last meeting here and has also been getting along in tip-top fashion at other tracks. Horses are assured an evener start and scoring is practically eliminated. In only one heat of four days racing at the last meeting did Phillips fail to get the starters away to a good start.

700 PERSONS WATCH PICKED TEAMS FIGHT SEVEN INNING BATTLE

Fetter's Terriers Take 1-0 Decision from Castner's All-Stars: Gate Near $100.

Approximately 700 persons filed into Lincoln park yesterday evening to watch two picked teams of No. 2 Sunday school league battle to a 1-0 score in a seven inning contest. Proceeds from the game for which a dime admission was collected will go to Donald Cox, erstwhile member of the Wesley M. E. Sunday school team. Cox suffered a broken leg recently during a game between Wesley and St. Paul Lutheran.

Fetter's Terriers vs. Castner's All-Stars is the way the game was billed. Fetter's Terriers won the game, 1-0 after a bitter struggle. Mutt Kellogg scored the winning run in the second inning when he dropped a single in right field, advanced on a single by Conroy and crossed the plate of Sloat's muff of Manahan's center field liner. As far as scoring was concerned neither team even came close to denting the home plate in later innings. A couple of scoring threats were issued at different times but none amounted to very much. The defensive game of both teams was too good.

Kellogg and Conroy started on the mound for the Terriers. Kellogg was derricked at the end of the third in favor of Shoemaker although for no fault of his own. He was being saved for an Industrial league game today. Shoemaker took up the duties right where Kellogg left off and completely throttled any scoring ambitions the opposition may have had.

Don Lindsey hurled the first three frames for the All-Stars and must be charged with the loss of the game although it was an error that allowed the winning run. Lindsey hurled equally as good a game as the other three pitchers who worked in the game. Amick followed Lindsey on the mound for the All-Stars. Amick gave up but one hit in the four innings he pitched.

Batteries and score by innings:
Castner All-Stars .... 000 000 0—0
Fetter Terriers ..... 010 000 x—1
Castner All-Stars, Lindsey, Amick, Hinklin and Honicker; Fetter Terriers, Kellogg, Shoemaker, Conroy and Burklew.

TURN IN TICKETS

It is expected that by the time a complete checkup has been made that over $100 will have been realized from the benefit game played yesterday. A preliminary checkup reveals 516 tickets taken in at the gate and $29.55 in cash. This would place the attendance figure at approximately 700 persons. The admission price was 10 cents but numerous individuals paid more than regular price.

Any managers or other individuals still in possession of tickets or money for the game are asked to turn them in at the Y. M. C. A. as soon as possible. Officials are anxious to complete the checkup.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

Ray Benge, Phillies—Shut out Cubs with five hits for 4-0 victory.

Babe Ruth, Yankees—His twenty-eighth homer of season brought in three runs in 10-4 victory over White Sox.

Si Johnson, Reds — Defeated Brooklyn 2-1 in pitching duel against Babe Phelps.

Joe Vosmik, Indians—Clouted home and triple, driving in three runs in 8-0 victory over Washington.

CALIFORNIA RULES IN TENNIS TOURNAMENT

Coast Net Stars Eliminate Other Contenders in N. J. Competition.

By The Associated Press

SEABRIGHT, N. J., July 30—California again is triumphant in the tennis world as the annual invitation tournaments of the Seabright Lawn Tennis and Cricket club progress toward the final rounds with a gradual elimination of the rivals of the California-bred players.

The men's singles event is down to the last round with John Hope Doeg, who won the national singles championship last year, meeting Ellsworth Vines Jr., of Pasadena, Cal. tomorrow. Doeg reached the final yesterday by beating another California, 19-year-old Jack Tidball of Los Angeles, 4-6, 6-3, 8-6, while Vines eliminated Cliff Sutter of New Orleans, 6-2, 11-9.

As the women's singles goes into the semi-final today, Mrs. Marion Zinderstein Jessup of Wilmington, Del., is the only easterner left to oppose three coast players. Mrs. Jessup, victorious over Marjorie Morrill of Edham, Mass., by scores of 8-7, 4-6, 6-1 in an upset yesterday, faces Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, uncrowned court queen, in one semi-final today. In the other semi-final match Mrs. L. A. Harper of Oakland, first ranking American player, meets Helen Jacobs, of Berkeley, Cal.

STEEL LEADS MARKET RALLY

While leading bankers here have informally expressed willingness to grant almost any credit that the Bank of England might need, the bank has apparently taken measures to help itself rather than seeking aid here. The disinclination to negotiate loans in either Paris or New York is regarded here as a matter of pride.

Wall Street was less interested in the dividends and earnings announcement of the Bethlehem Steel Corp. after the close of the market than it was in U. S. Steel's quarterly meeting Tuesday.

Nevertheless there was considerable difference of opinion as to what action Bethlehem might take on its common dividend. A sharp reduction in the $4 annual rate was regarded as a foregone conclusion since earnings are believed to have fallen considerably under preferred dividend requirements.

Wall Street recognizes that adverse dividend news is by no means out of the way. Omission of Barnsdall dividend caused no surprise, and further slashing of oil company disbursements is expected. Further railway cuts are also being forecast.

The local money market was easier with call money offered outside at one per cent for the first time in several days.

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meat, Grain, Livestock

Peaches at 79 cents a half-bushel was an offering of dealers today. Southern grown peaches are becoming more plentiful and, in view of a large crop throughout the peach growing districts of the south, lower prices are anticipated by dealers as the season advances. Watermelons were selling today at from 35 to 60 cents, the supply continues to be ample and dealers report increased sales due to the hot weather. Cantaloupe are also selling readily at two and three for 25 cents.

Rain is badly needed for the development of sweet corn, growers say. Ears are now forming and unless rain is received shortly, the crop will fall short of anticipations. A fairly good quality of corn was selling today at 35 cents. Rain is also needed for other garden crops, peas and beans are suffering from lack of rain and the supply on the market today was limited. The price held at three pounds for 25 cents. Home grown tomatoes were selling today at two pounds for 25 cents and cucumbers at five and 10 cents.

CORN SCORES SUDDEN GAIN

Price Soars to 72 1-2 Cents as Bidding Becomes Unusually Active.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 30—Corn jumped three cents a bushel higher today as soon as trading began. A quick further bulge lifted the market two cents more, July soaring to 72½, as a result of anxious bidding of scarcity of offerings of corn available for delivery before month expiration of contracts. Other months than July advanced but kept within ordinary limits. Wheat started unchanged to ½ off and then rallied.

Except that the corn pit was crowded with traders, and that all other grain pits were relatively deserted, evidence that a corn "corner" existed came chiefly from steep new upturns of prices. Thomas M. Howell the silent masterful trader generally credited with being the man who had acquired ownership of the bulk of corn sold for delivery in Chicago this month, was not on the exchange floor. Brokers friendly to him estimated roughly that in the fresh five cent jump in prices today he had a profit in sight of 20 cents a bushel on 5,000,000 bushels or more, in addition to profits heretofore realized.

Talk that sellers of the corn future delivery contracts which must be settled before tomorrow's trading ended were largely government financed agencies remained unverified today. A reiterated denial was out from George S. Milnor that the Farmers' National Grain corporation or its subsidiary was interested in July corn, aside from a small amount which had been sold and would be delivered. Meanwhile, deliveries of corn to the board of trade firm supposed to be acting for Howell were unusually brisk and included 157 carloads on railroad tracks. Such deliveries, however, failed to effect any important break in prices, the market fluctuating rapidly within a range of one cent from the temporary top figure 72½ cents.

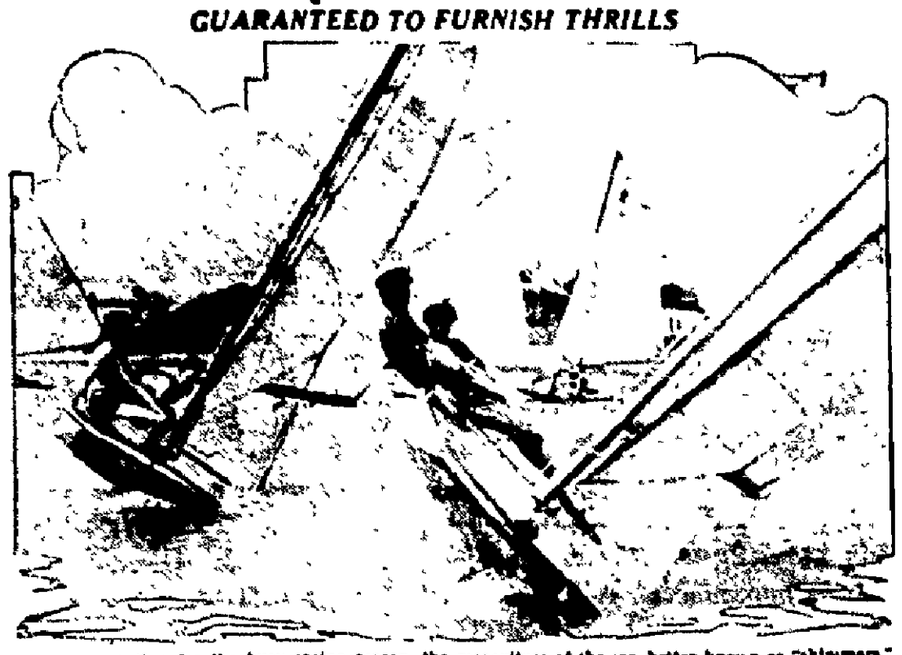
GUARANTEED TO FURNISH THRILLS



In preparation for the busy racing season, the mosquitoes of the sea, better known as "skimmers," turn out for practice races on Alamitos bay, off Long Beach, Calif. The skimmers are the smallest type of recognized racing yacht and their contests verge on the spectacular, as sailed by young shipmates, who are just as frequently girls as boys. This snappy action proves that all's not serenely smooth sailing when out in a skimmer. But it looks mighty exciting just the same.

Nurse Needs Mattress To Aid TB Patient

ANY Marionite owning an extra mattress, the 42-inch or three-quarter size for a single bed preferred, may augment the efforts of health authorities to check the spread of tuberculosis by donating the mattress to Miss Alma Denney, tuberculosis nurse, for use in a Marion home.

A patient in needy circumstances is obliged to sleep with her mother, there being only one bed available for the two. Miss Denney has obtained a bed and bedclothing, but has been unable to get a mattress to make it possible for the patient to be confined in separate quarters.

If the patient and her mother continue to sleep together, the disease probably will spread to the parent, Miss Denney said. Anyone willing to donate a mattress for use in this home can call Miss Denney at 2686. She will deliver the mattress to the proper home.

Chic Star Patterns

Practical and Simple

Slender Model—Sizes 38 to 50.

Pattern 214 6

Jabots are particularly good for "not-too-slim" figures, as the graceful flares disguise one's lines. Also the pointed seaming in the skirt reduces the appearance of the hips. An absence of belt prevents the cutting of the figure, yet the horizontal waistline tucks slightly mould the bodice where necessary. Cool arms will welcome the cool, comfy and very smart flared sleeves. All in all, this is an ideal style for the mature woman. Pattern 2146 makes up beautifully in chiffon, georgette, voile, flat crepe, lawn or dimity.

Obtainable only in sizes 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 50. Size 40 requires 3¾ yards of 39 inch fabric. Yardage for every size, and complete, clear instructions are given. An accompanying illustration is sent with the pattern, so that you may make it with ease. Send your order to Chic Star Patterns, Marion Star, Marion, Ohio. Price 15c in coin.

SCORES CRITICS OF FARM BOARD

Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Denies All Farmers Near Bankruptcy.

By International News Service

LANCASTER, O., July 30 — Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Renick W. Dunlap emphatically denied at a farmer's picnic here today that "all farmers are bumping along the bare rim of bankruptcy."

A harsh indictment of the critics of the federal farm board also was issued by Dunlap. He denounced those speculative interests who, he said, "have apparently convinced some farmers that the farm board is their enemy."

In an attempt to point the way to better times, Dunlap told his listeners that "agriculture wants business to prosper and business wants agriculture to prosper" and that "we can not get out of the depression by fighting each other."

He denied frequent declarations that wheat is the index drop and that the fall in the price of wheat in Ohio is certain to bring disaster to Ohio agriculture.

Hen More Important

"The hen is more important by half than wheat, and the old cow, never gone into politics extensively, is more than twice as important as wheat," he asserted.

"We have been led to believe that wheat is the staff of life, and that around wheat centers the prosperity of agriculture. While this may have been true at one time, it is far from being true today, as wheat actually constitutes but six per cent of the annual average gross income of farmers of the United States.

"If wheat were to be abandoned altogether, a sizable dent would be made in American agriculture, and much distress would follow, but the farm industry certainly would not be wrecked, except in the sparse one-crop wheat areas."

Hope for the Ohio farmer was seen by Dunlap in corn. "Corn is Ohio's greatest single crop. We must not let wheat dominate our thoughts. Admitting, as we must, that the western farmer can grow wheat at a lower cost than we can grow it here in Ohio, we may as well become reconciled to this fact and adjust our farming to meet this new competition in our own country."

Throughout that part of his discussion he attempted to emphasize that "there is too much wheat today in the world."

Assailing those farmers and politicians who have demanded that the farm board remove its 200,000,000 bushels of surplus wheat from the market, Dunlap predicted that such action would not raise the wheat price five cents a bushel.

Hits Speculators

"These 200 million bushels are not nearly so depressing a factor on the market as the activity of certain short sellers, and the persistence with which that section of the farm board-hostile press wails and gnashes its teeth about the plight of the farmer.

"Sufficient proof of that is to be found in the fact that wheat prices failed to respond to the contagious encouraging news of Mr. Hoover's plan for a moratorium on intergovernmental war debts," he said.

Calling the plan for storing wheat owned by the board a ridiculous one, Dunlap declared that "if the stabilization corporation was to hold its wheat for slightly less than three years the storage costs would exceed the value of the wheat. I see no wise and helpful solution to the present wheat problem other than that adopted by the farm board."

Dunlap said he felt convinced that the plight of the farmer is far less discouraging than it is pictured.

TWO ITALIAN CHILDREN, Anna Maria, two years old, and her brother, Romano, did yesterday in Rome what Goethe would have called das unbeschriebliche. They tweaked the ears of Mussolini 46 times, something that nobody else has ever done, even once.

Mussolini is their father. It was his 46th birthday and it is the birthday custom in Italy to tweak the ear once for each year of life.

How free from any "tweaking" Mussolini's career has been since he marched on Rome and took control of Italy's government!

A great war makes all men feel unsure, uncertain. When one steps out, knowing exactly what he wants, putting his will ahead of organized government, he succeeds, at least for a while. Stalin proves it in Russia, Kemal in Turkey, Mussolini in Italy.

RUMORS that the Bank of England has been trying to borrow $100,000,000 from the Banque de France annoy the British government.

The rumors are called "an attempt to undermine the British reputation in the world."

However, in the war, when money was really hard to get, Britain lent not millions but billions to France and the other allies.

For France to lend $100,000,000 to England now would seem reasonable but not probable.

TWO MEN BURNED IN FIRE AT KENTON

Oil Truck Bursts into Flames at Filling Station.

Special to The Star

KENTON, July 30—Two men were burned, one seriously, and two gasoline storage tanks at the Hardin County Oil company's bulk station on High street were threatened with destruction when a truck, which was being loaded with gas, suddenly burst into flames, shortly before noon today.

Carl Wolfe, driver of the truck, is in Antonia hospital suffering from burns about the head and body sustained when he jumped into the cab of the flaming truck and drove it a safe distance from the oil tanks. Physicians say his condition is not critical. Fred Haas, employe at the station was burned about the face, arms and hands when he jumped from the top of the truck to disconnect the pumps from the truck. The truck was practically destroyed. The loss is estimated at about $500.

City firemen prevented the flames from spreading after about 100 gallons of gasoline in one compartment of the truck had burned out.

POST EXTRA GUARDS IN STRIKE DISTRICT

Coal Mine Properties Watched Closely as Fresh Disorders Break Out.

By The Associated Press

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., July 30—Mine properties were guarded more closely today as the result of fresh disorders in two parts of the bituminous coal strike area.

Extra guards were assigned to duty in the vicinity of St. Clairsville, O., where late yesterday an attempt was made to burn the tipple and barn of the Clarkson Coal company at Provident. Deputies fired on two men seen fleeing from the scene.

The march of some 200 national miners' union followers on the Benwood, W. Va., plant of the Hitchman Coal & Coke company moved sheriff's deputies to further precautions. Two men and a girl were under arrest on a charge of intimidating workers. The marchers were dispersed with tear bombs.

Eviction orders which were to have involved families of 40 miners of the Costanzo Coal company at Warwood, W. Va., were withdrawn late yesterday. Announcement was made that the families would be permitted to remain in the dwellings for the present at least.

Heavy demands being made on relief organizations caring for the destitute prompted the action, it was said.

FACES LIFE IN CELL FOR PART IN SLAYING

Zanesville Jury Saves Killer of War Veteran from Death Penalty.

By The Associated Press

ZANESVILLE, O., July 30—Convicted of participating in the murder of Henry H. Gay, 80-year-old Civil war veteran, William Gibbons, 22, today faced life imprisonment in Ohio penitentiary. A jury of eight men and four women found him guilty late yesterday.

The verdict was for first degree murder, but the jurors saved Gibbons from the death penalty by recommending mercy.

Louis Johns, 22, alleged accomplice of Gibbons, was found guilty at a previous trial and is under sentence to die Oct. 2. He has an appeal pending.

Gibbons was convicted without a single witness in his behalf. His attorneys were content to rest upon the confession which the state claimed he made, which named Johns as the actual slayer.

Gay, who resided at Cannelville, was beaten to death several months ago, when he resisted two men who attempted to rob him.

Bickert formerly managed the Palace nad Marion theaters here.

Three Others Escape Death in Cookeville, Tenn., Motorboat Accident.

COOKEVILLE, Tenn., July 30—Five of eight persons in a motorboat that sank at Burgess Falls last night were drowned as a rescue party raised the craft and recovered four of the bodies early today.

The five were Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah Whitson of Cookeville, Whitson's sister, Mrs. J. B. Barnett of Nashville, Tenn., and her two young sons, James and Robert Barnett. Two other sisters of Whitson, Lucy, 18, and Pearl, 17, swam to safety, towing with them Beecher Case, 45.

Survivors said they did not know what caused the boat to sink.

Wrong Names Given in Carey Birth Report

Through an unintentional error in a report sent to The Star, an erroneous announcement was made of a birth of a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Russell Blue of Carey, on July 25. The announcement, carried in the issue of July 27, should have given the names of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Thom, of Carey whose daughter, Mary Louise, was born on that date. The Star regrets the error, and is glad to take this means of making a correction.

AL CAPONE IN COURT TO HEAR SENTENCE

Judge Orders Evidence Presented in Cases Involving Gang Leader.

ing fully the evidence and determining the degree of guilt.

The gang leader made his entry alone, driving from a hotel to the federal building without his usual bodyguards. Cordons of police cleared his way to the court room.

Throngs on the street pressed toward the four entrances of the building, but mounted police outside and files of officers within held back all save government men and court principals.

Capone was a symphony in green as he sat, unattended by any of his family or friends, awaiting his fate. He chatted, albeit nervously, with the reporters and mopped a perspiring brow.

He said his wife would remain here during his expected prison term and he was sending his son to a private school—where, he would rather not say.

Through with Rackets

Capone was quoted by the Chicago Herald and Examiner today as saying he is through with the rackets forever.

On the eve of his appearance today in court for his sentence on his plea of guilty to income tax evasion and conspiracy to violate the prohibition law, the chief of gang chiefs, said he would return to Chicago when he completes his term in Leavenworth prison, and enter some legitimate business.

Capone gave credit to the secret six, the crime fighting organization of the Association of Commerce, for his downfall.

"The secret six," he said, "has licked the rackets. They've licked me. They've made it so there's no money in the game any more. Most of the fellows who've been working with me realize this as well as I do. That's why I think they'll do the same as I'm going to do when I come back from Leavenworth—go into honest business."

red plane circled the field once and darted eastward.

Both fliers during the luncheon expressed their determination to beat the Post-Gatty round-the-world speed record, but they agreed their forced landing last night in Wales had robbed them of their chance to circle the globe in six days as they had hoped to do.

The two pilots set the time of their transatlantic flight a exactly 32 hours.

"It wouldn't vary a minute," said Pangborn, "we estimated the distance at about 3,150 miles.

"We wouldn't have had to land if it hadn't been for the fog. We were unable to tell exactly where we were although we knew just about the location, so we came down.

"In order to get above the fog we had to fly at about 14,000 feet most of the way.

The hop of their flight from Cardigan of Croydon was made most exactly two hours.

There were only a handful newspaper men and Croydon officials on hand to greet the fliers.

The fliers' first landing on side of the Atlantic was near Moylegrove, Wales, five southwest of Cardigan.

"That farmer sure was surprised when we told him who we were and where we came from," Pangborn. "We could not make him believe us at all."

"The forced landing near Cardigan," Pangborn declared, us just half a day. There bare chance of our completing 'round the world flight in 20 days until that happened, but we will be somewhat longer, ever, we'll beat the Post record."

TRUTHFUL TIRE ADVERTISING WINS!

WHEN we advertised the fact that Firestone was furnishing us complete lines of Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires that not only met the price but beat the quality and construction of every grade of special brand tires sold by mail order houses and others, the mail order houses made vigorous protests to Better Business Bureaus and made demands upon newspapers not to accept Firestone or our advertising.

We cannot blame them for they did not want car owners to know that they could get, at no more cost, a better tire made by a leading manufacturer, bearing his name and guarantee plus our guarantee and our service.

When car owners awakened to this fact, they came to us, compared the sections we had cut from Firestone Tires and special brand mail order tires, and were astounded at the Extra Values we were giving.

As a result, our business and that of oth Firestone Dealers throughout the countr increased so fast that it has been necessa for Firestone to run their factories twent four hours a day and Firestone sold mo tires in April, May and June than in any li period in the history of the company.

In our advertising we do not make co parisons involving laboratory tests whi you cannot verify except in a laboratory— neither do we make comparisons of co struction or price based on misleading clas fications such as first line tire, second li tire or third line tire*—we do not make co parisons to confuse and mislead you as actual values and service—we only mal statements and comparisons that you c verify for yourself in our store before y purchase the tire.

Come in today and get the greater safet extra quality and extra values found only Firestone Tires.

"When the National Better Business Bureau realized that their Bulletin No. 634 was being taken advantage of by some advertisers they issued a Bulletin dated July 10th as follows:

"In our Bulletin No. 634 entitled 'Definitions of Terms Used in the Tire Industry' we pubished definitions of First Line — Second Line — Third Line — Heavy Duty and Super Heavy Duty Tires.

"Our definitions pointed out, 'Although each manufacturer's or distributor's first line tire may represent his best standard size 4 or 6 ply tire, there is not necessarily any equality of competitive first line tires as to materials, workmanship or price.' This interpretation also applies to all lines of tires.

"We therefore recommend that advertising to the consumer shall avoid the use of these terms for the purpose of comparing competitive products."

Scherff Furniture Store Will Remodel Buildings

Entire Front of Two Structures To Be Changed: Entrance To Be Moved; Alterations Will Show Off Model Cottage.

A remodeling program costing several thousand dollars has been started in the two buildings at 231 west Center street occupied by the H. C. Scherff Furniture Co., Mr. Scherff announced today. The construction of a new front and a complete renovation and redecoration of the two buildings has been started.

These improvements follow recent remodeling changes in the store, featured by the construction of a 12-room model cottage within the store for display purposes, which was completed several weeks ago.

The main entrance to the store will be moved to the center of the larger of the two adjoining buildings occupied by the company. This entrance is now located in the corner of the building at Center street and Blaine avenue.

The door will be sunk between two large window displays and will open into a virtual lobby to the cottage and to the remainder of the store. The entire front will be torn away and replaced with plate glass windows held in place by narrow strips of metal in place of the large posts in the present front.

All rooms of both buildings will be painted and papered. A new heating plant will be installed. The greatest evident change will be in the new front and the modernized window displays which supplement the 12-room cottage inside the store in the exhibition of completely furnished rooms.

Three weeks will be required to complete the change.

DOROTHY MACKAILL AT PALACE

"Their Mad Moment" opens at the Palace today for a two-day run. Dorothy Mackaill and Warner Baxter are the featured players in a cast including Zasu Pitts, Nance O'Neil and Lawrence Grant. The story is from the novel, "Barquerle," by Eleanor Mercein. The scene is laid in the picturesque Basque country, lying in the southwest corner of France and northern part of Spain on both sides of the Pyrenees mountains. Baxter was born in Columbus, O., March 29, 1893, and last year visited relatives there on a flying trip to the west coast.

Salt sprinkled over a Michigan flying field to lay the dust also improved its visibility.

Right now you can buy at record-breaking low prices the improved 1931 edition of the famous Goodyear All-Weather Tread Tire.

It is today and has been for 16 years the first-choice tire of the world.

This is not a mere claim; an unbiased public institution recently asked American motorists the question, "What tire is best?"

The vote, nation-wide and uninfluenced in any way, showed a preference for Goodyears nearly 2½ times that for the second tire, and five times the average preference for all other makes.

If you want safety and mileage and style in full measure in the tires you buy now, you needn't deny yourself on account of cost.

This great new Goodyear sells today at the lowest prices ever, and at no premium over less popular makes of standard tires.

It is the smartest-looking equipment you can put upon your car, and it'll pile up performance for you that only top-quality can give.

Look at the tire and how low it's priced, then ask yourself the question: "Why buy a second-choice tire, when first-choice costs no more?"

Daily Proverb—"He who would rise in the world should veil his ambition with the forms of humanity."

The United States is expending $4,000,000 monthly to carry the 285,000,000 bushels of wheat it is storing to stabilize the prices of that grain. Governmental paternalism is ever costly.

The Anna, a 2,500-ton Swedish freighter, reached Chicago, one day this week, carrying the first cargo of general merchandise to be transferred directly to that city from Europe. And thus the Windy City becomes a world port.

The coast guard oceanographic expedition in northern latitudes reports having seen forty icebergs in one day off the Strait of Belle Isle. What a bet the steamship lines are overlooking by not running heated-season scenic excursions to Labrador!

The friends of the Kansas bride and groom married in a wheat field who showered them with wheat instead of rice are to be commended. At the present relative prices of wheat and rice out there, that's starting them off with a lesson in economy much needed by the newly married of today.

Fifteen thousand textile workers in Paterson, New Jersey, go out on a strike. We do not pretend to know the merit of the grievances of the strikers, but it's a cinch that they are in no way aiding in ameliorating the unemployment situation.

The floating of a $200,000,000 bond issue by the state to permit the state, counties and cities to finance public works and thereby afford unemployment relief has been proposed. Might it not be better finance and thus better business to put the unemployed up at first-class hotels?

The temperature went up to eighty-eight in New York City, one day this week and the city "sweltered in heat and humidity," to quote a New York paper. What would become of the people of that town, we wonder, should they ever experience a fairly warm spell?

"The Kindest People on Earth."

In a recent Sunday radio talk on Africa, Garveth Wells, who has acquired fame as an explorer, made the statement that no animal was wild until it came into contact with man, and that the quickest way to make animals wild is to shoot at them.

Mrs. Robert E. Bradley, world traveler of Chicago, says that the white man has had even worse effect on the nations of Africa than man has had on its animal life. "White people have contaminated the natives in the coastal area," is the way she puts it, "and corrupted their morals and their manners."

Mrs. Bradley a few days since returned from her third trip into the heart of Africa. An imaginative writer, who interviewed her on her arrival in her home city, had her returning "from the jungles of darkest Africa," but that is evidently a mistake, as Africa is in no way dark and the continent hasn't any jungles. But she and her husband and Dr. Harry A. Bigelow, dean of the law school of the University of Chicago, were just back from a long stay in the interior of Africa, where they visited for weeks with a number of African tribes, among them a tribe of cannibals, and she describes the cannibals as "just the nicest people" save for their little peculiarity in taste, "and the kindest people on earth."

"Actually," Mrs. Bradley went on to say, "the farther we got from civilization, the politer the natives were. We started on the west coast of equatorial Africa, and the farther inland we went the kinder the manner in which we were received."

A resident of Chicago, this woman traveler naturally may not have as high esteem for what passes as the refining influences of civilization as she otherwise might have and the natives of interior Africa may have shown to good advantage in kindliness and the matter of good manners in comparison with some elements of her home people, but even at that she is in line with the records of history, all of which go to show that the first voyagers to any land previously unknown to the civilized world found the natives disposed to be friendly and that they became otherwise only after being made the subjects of imposition and abuse—and in many cases, pillage and outrage.

And if we take at face value the words of explorers and travelers worthy of credit, the same is true of so-called wild animal life; the great majority of animals will only let food and are inclined to be no more than curious when beholding man for the first time and, if unmolested are inclined to become friendly.

In other words, the general run of animal life is naturally inclined to be friendly until made otherwise by association, training or what, for want of a better term, we will call education—education which causes it to become suspicious and fearful of man.

Shaw Playing His Game.

Soviet Russia may labor under the impression that George Bernard Shaw is playing its game; but if it does, it is laboring under a delusion. George is simply playing his own game, the game he has played from early childhood.

Brilliant, witty, but not always convincing, George discovered in his youth that the easiest way to attract attention and to commercialize the least possible effort to the greatest possible advantage was to be different from the general run by criticizing whatever is and championing anything that isn't.

After living for twenty-three years off his parents, who had a hard struggle in making both ends meet, we find him saying: "I did not throw myself into the struggle of life. I threw my mother into it. I was not a staff to my father in his old age. I hung on to my father's coat tails. Callous as Comus to moral babble, I steadily wrote my five pages a day and made a man of myself—at my mother's expense—instead of a slave."

At twenty-six, Shaw heard Henry George, the single-taxer, speak in London on the nationalization of land. This Georgian doctrine was so far from the ordinary, that he at once adopted it and became its champion until he ran into a work of Karl Marx advocating the nationalization of all property, and the Marxian doctrine being more extreme, he shifted to that and has called himself a Socialist ever since.

Now Shaw is over in Russia telling the bolsheviki that when they have succeeded in their communal revolution, the other nations will follow fast in their footsteps.

What Mr. Shaw has said and may say over in Russia is hardly liable to be taken seriously by the world outside Russia, if it is even there, for the world knows that he is above all else a self-exploiter, possessed with an unusual gift of gab which he uses consistently for advertising the fiction, plays, poems and articles uttered under his name, the plots and situations of many of which are not of such originality as to preclude the suspicion that he may have borrowed some of them.

One thing may be taken as just about certain. Had he been a citizen of Russia and made his home there instead of in England, where there is more freedom of expression than anywhere else on earth, he long since would have been dead. Had he spoken and written in Russia as he has in England, he would either have been made the target of a bolshevik firing squad, as countless scores of champions of Marxism have been, or he would have been bottled up and that would have killed him. Shaw, not permitted to talk, would soon become non-existent.

Alfonso denies the London story to the effect that he had renounced the throne of Spain in favor of his third son, Don Juan. All right. Let it go at that. It's not a matter of vital interest.

The Canadian Border.

The belated dedication of the Perry's Victory memorial at Put-in-Bay tomorrow will be observed and interpreted in terms of the present peaceful boundary between the United States and Canada. It is a memorial to the victory of reason over international hate, as much as a memorial to Oliver Hazard Perry's victory over the British fleet on Lake Erie in the War of 1812.

In the rotunda of the memorial, one of the most beautiful in the world, lie the bodies of three American and three British naval officers, killed in the engagement which settled forever the question of American-Canadian relations. Their position, their presence, and the circumstance of their original burial side by side more than 100 years ago by their comrades constitute one of mankind's most powerful symbols of international amity.

The Rush-Bagot agreement, by which peace was secured, has guaranteed the safety of billions in money and thousands in life. It has stood firm through crises that might easily have precipitated the United States and Canada into war. Even so, the agreement itself has been powerless; it derives its power from the support it finds among the peace-loving people of both nations.

It is, significantly enough, no more than a simple disarmament treaty, limiting naval armaments on the Great lakes so securely that neither side has anything to fear—the ideal disarmament situation. The same situation could be brought about in Europe, theoretically. In a few months more anxious delegates from all nation will gather in Geneva to attempt the first uncertain steps toward that end.

It is a question whether Ohio residents are as familiar with the beautiful Perry memorial as its proximity to them should make it. It seems reasonable to suggest that a visit to it would be worth while, both from the standpoint of its intrinsic beauty and its deep significance to friendly relations between this nation and Canada.

The French gold reserve has been increased by $1,500,000,000 since 1927. And think of the tears which have been shed over poor, downtrodden France!

The "model boy" of Chicago, who shot a policeman to death when ordered out of a high school swimming pool, has been sentenced to serve eighteen years in Joliet penitentiary. Not so surprising that a "model boy" should prove a criminal. The fact that he could pass as a model boy should have carried warning that he wasn't normal.

One child killed and four children wounded as the result of an attempt of New York City gangsters to "get" a rival gangster with a machine gun. How much longer will America remain practically passive in the face of conditions which threaten the overthrowing of all semblance of law and order and the lives of the decent element of its people as well?

The foes of the Bruening government who have been seeking the dissolution of the Prussian diet are now seeking somebody to assist them in letting go of the tail of the referendum they started looking to that end. They fear its success might place on them responsibility for the failure of Germany and France to reach an agreement on debt postponement. There's always danger in starting something which may go off its course and muss up things generally.

Editorial Opinion.

THE STATE AS SLAVE OWNER.

Lady Astor's appeal, on her knees, to Commissar Litvinoff to permit Mme. Krynin to join her husband and son in America was dramatic, but it is doubtful if the communists will accede to it. If they do it will be only because compliance will be politic and not at all because their attention has been called to a gross disregard of human rights.

To a communist the citizen, or rather subject, belongs to the state at all times. He is, in effect, the slave of the state. Professor Krynin managed to come to America, but, as he is a valuable property, steps must be taken to assure his return. Accordingly, Mme. Krynin is held as a hostage. That is why she has not been permitted to join her husband.

In our world we adopt a somewhat similar attitude in time of war, but only in time of war. Soviet apologists attempt to justify their preference for serfdom by pretending that Russia today is in war. It is a strange war, indeed, without an enemy in the field, without a frontier violated, without a restriction on the import or export of contraband. To justify such cruelties as have been visited upon the Krynins by describing them as war measures is the merest sophistry.

The great discovery made by our revolution was that the state belongs to the citizens and each citizen belongs to himself. That is what was meant in the resounding declaration about the pursuit of happiness. We have had to compromise with the doctrine from time to time, but we have never surrendered it as it has been surrendered in Russia and Italy and wherever else dictatorships and absolutisms exist. To us the fate of Mme. Krynin or such a struggle as that being waged in Italy today for the proprietorship of youth is a nightmare out of the past. To us a man owes certain duties to the state and may undertake certain obligations toward his church, but that either power should have a perpetual and enforceable claim upon his body or his soul is as abhorrent as chattel slavery.—Chicago Tribune.

Twenty Years Ago.

It was Sunday, July 30.

The second annual Marion County Chautauqua came to an end. Colonel William J. Bryan was the speaker of the afternoon and drew an audience of more than 5,000 persons. The chief feature of the evening service was a splendid address by Governor Robert A. Glenn, of North Carolina.

There were but few church services in the city owing to the fact that local pastors thought that their congregations would profit more by attending the Chautauqua than they would by listening to sermons.

Marion got to Myers, while Portsmouth could not hit Goulait, and the Marion Diggers won, four to two.

Miss Lulu Hartzell, of Cleveland, and Mr. Miles Messenger, of Marion, were married by Rev. George M. Rourke.

Marion—Seen Through Local Eyes.

Following are the answers of three citizens to the question, "What Is Wrong with Marion?"—the first in the questionnaire circulated by Dr. Carl W. Sawyer to get a comprehensive insight into the community feeling regarding our home city, in the hope of arriving at a remedy for handicaps, if any, from which Marion may suffer. From day to day, answers of various citizens to the same question will be given publicity on this page.

"What is wrong with Marion?"

There is nothing wrong with Marion, if each citizen would take an interest in their own city as they would in a business of their own. The city of Marion should be run on a very strict economical basis and keep Marion's money in Marion.

Patronize your own local dealer, and in turn the dealer should buy his supplies from home concerns and manufacturers as much as possible. In other words, make your community as self-sustaining as possible, and then prosperity should come back.

"What is wrong with Marion?"

Marion has probably slipped considerably from an epidemic of self-contentment, selfishness, lack of leadership, want of proper incentive, insufficient concentration, and in addition it is now reflecting the effects of the general business depression.

"What is wrong with Marion?"

There is nothing wrong with Marion more than any other city of its size at the present time. There does seem to be among the citizens of Marion a lack of civic pride and cooperation. Perhaps this is due to the fact that they have never been awakened to Marion's needs.

Same Dieting Is Safest.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

A fat child is often the subject of much unnecessary ridicule and abuse. The fear that "no one loves a fat man," is grossly exaggerated. Most stout persons I have encountered have much more winning personalities than many of their lean brothers.

But, as these individuals grow older, they are likely to become quite sensitive about their stoutness. It is not surprising, I am sure, that they are willing to resort to almost any method that has in it the hope of fewer pounds of weight.

Recently, there has been great carelessness in the use of thyroid extract. It is true that under some circumstances thyroid gland products cause a marked reduction in weight. But the use of such drugs materially increases the heat production of the body. This places an undesirable strain on the heart and blood vessels.

At a recent gathering of the American College of Physicians, a warning was issued against the unwise treatment of obesity by thyroid products. At this meeting of eminent physicians, it was decided that stout people can safely and just as easily reduce by proper dieting.

The general public mind is warned against the use of this medicine as a quick means of reducing. Whatever loss of weight the body undergoes should be brought about in a gradual manner. Sudden and rapid loss of poundage is decidedly detrimental. Often great harm is accomplished by this undesirable method of reducing.

The excessive eating of sweets and pastries and of munching between meals must be avoided. Likewise, those who are overweight are not encouraged to go on a rigid fasting diet. In many respects, this is just as harmful as the administration of thyroid.

By a decrease in the amount of food consumed there is reduction in the weight without harm or strain. This results in less heat production. On such a diet the heavy person tires out less easily and is fully satisfied with his food. His comfortable feeling encourages him to persist in his sane efforts to reduce.

Reduction in weight by means of proper eating is a slow process, but it is the safest. It can only be accomplished by persistence and care. It may take a considerable time, but you will be assured of maintaining reduced weight if you persist in this method.

Mastering Proportion.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

Some time ago, in a speech introducing Einstein in London, Bernard Shaw characteristically said "Science is always wrong. There is, of course, a sense in which this epigram is true. Perfect truth, with reference to the world of nature, is not to be attained, and is perhaps forever unattainable. As Eddington has eloquently pointed out, and as Einstein pointed out before him, all the scientist can hope to do is to create his own image of the real world. It is a pattern, a picture, of the world of nature, and not that world itself."

God is described today by Sir James Jeans as a mathematician. But even of the Creator we are told, not that He made gods, but that He created man in His own image. He made a human image of the divine. This is, in a measure, what the scientist does. He makes a theoretical image of the world of nature. It is never "right," because it is never complete or perfect. There is always something left to discover. The pattern does not fit reality at all points. If it did, then man himself would have become God.

One of the most extraordinary developments in modern science is the rich and fruitful study of the atom. An undue measure of credit has gone to Bohr, Heisenberg, Born, Sommerfeld, Schroedinger, De Broglie, and others. A creative pioneer in this study has been Sir Ernest Rutherford. Two of the most brilliant workers in the field of atomic structure, Bohr and Moseley, were research students under Sir Ernest Rutherford.

One of the very real problems of modern science, dealing as it does with the excessively small and the most enormously great, is to make the proportions understandable by the layman. In the case of astronomy, it is found necessary to find a very large or elongated yardstick or measuring rod. In the case of some problems, a sufficiently long measuring rod is the "astronomical unit," the distance from the earth to the sun, namely 93,000,000 miles. When this proves inadequate to give us a clear comprehension of relative size and distance, we use a still larger one; the light-year, the distance which light, moving at the rate of 186,330 miles per second, travels in a year.

When we come to study size and distance in inter-atomic structure, we must multiply all the quantities by some enormous number in order to bring everything within the perspective of our comprehension. The following proportions are given by Bridges and Tiltman in "Master Minds in Modern Science."

Imagine an association football as big as a room—say about fifteen feet in diameter. Now imagine an object the size of a pin's head fixed in the center of this great ball. Around that fixed center, whirling at dizzy speeds, imagine other bodies much smaller than the pin-head nucleus. Now imagine all this on a scale in accordance with which the football represents an object measuring about the one-hundred-millionth of an inch across, and you have the modern conception of the atom.

The pioneer in the study of this tiny, yet vastly complicated structure, is the great Cambridge scientist, Sir Ernest Rutherford.—Copyright, 1931, International Feature Service, Inc.

First Teachers' Training Suggestion.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH.

Governor Thomas Worthington made the first suggestion of normal school training by the state, it is believed. It was in his message to the legislature, December 1, 1817. He alluded to "the greatest difficulty in securing an adequate number of teachers with qualifications and moral character that would fit them to enlighten the minds and shape the morals of the rising generation." It was difficult to obtain such teachers, he said, even where suitable salaries could be paid.

"With a view to effecting this object," the governor wrote in his message, "I recommend to the general assembly the propriety of establishing at the seat of government a free school at which shall be taught the different branches of English education at the expense of the state, to such numbers of boys, children of parents otherwise unable to educate them, and no others, as the legislature may deem proper.

"That whenever young men thus educated shall become qualified for the purpose, they shall, when proper salaries are furnished them, have the preference of employment in the public schools of the state and shall be obliged to serve as teachers of the schools until they are twenty-one years of age, and may thereafter, so long as they conduct themselves well, have the preference of employment."

The teachers' training idea is, of course, here complicated with aid to the children of the poor, and there is the idea also that those who may be beneficiaries of the system should in some measure repay the state by serving as teachers during minority, but the theme of the proposition was teachers' training and it seems to have been the first suggestion of it in Ohio.

It is interesting to note also that the governor refers only to boys and young men, the idea that women might serve as teachers does not seem to have occurred yet.

County and City Representatives Interview State Tax Heads.

Mayor L. Don Jones, County Commissioners O. W. Kinnamon and O. C. McCurdy, and Safety Director T. E. Sonnanstine today interviewed A. J. The conference today followed a meeting two weeks ago in which city, county and township officials met with the city and county aid committee of the Family Welfare society, a welfare agency of the Community Fund, to prepare for the needs of the unemployed during the coming winter.

Mr. Krause attended this meeting and discussed various methods of raising tax money for welfare purposes. He invited the officials to visit the commission in Columbus after a thorough digest of all new tax laws had been made.

TWO FALSE ALARMS TURNED IN HERE

Fire Chief Learns Names of Two Boys Who Pull Box.

A desire to interrupt camp meeting services being conducted in the neighborhood, is believed by Fire Chief McFarland to have prompted a woman living in the vicinity of Olney avenue and Foster Lane to send in a call for the fire department last night. Shortly after 8 p. m. central station received a phone call in a woman's voice that there was a fire at the intersection of Olney avenue and Foster Lane. When firemen from the central and No. 2 stations arrived they found no trace of a fire or of anyone who had sent in the call. A revival is being held in a tent in that vicinity.

The call was the second false alarm answered by firemen last night. At 6:25 two boys, whose names are in the hands of firemen, pulled box 139 at Uncapher avenue and Perry streets. Firemen from the No. 2 station answered the call. Several persons living in the vicinity gave Fire Chief McFarland the names of two boys whom they said sent in the alarm. They were scheduled for a conference with fire and police officials today. An investigation is also being conducted by the safety officials into the source of the second call.

Plugs made of stiffened jute fibre have been invented to hold screws in glass, metal or plaster.

"Still time..but not much!"
Warns Floyd Gibbons as he and his fellow judges make ready to close contest and award prizes.
"And," he adds, "I just have a hunch that the Grand-Prize letter hasn't been mailed yet!"

Hello everybody. Come on, boys and girls! Hurry, hurry, or you'll be on the outside looking in when that trip to Europe and that four thousand round simoleons are being passed out. If you're driving a car around Ohio it's a pretty safe bet you're using a Sohio heat-tempered gasoline in it, and in that case you ought to take a whirl at these prizes hung up by SOHIO for all Ohio to shoot at.

Remember, all you've got to do to qualify for a slice of the golden melon is to drop us Judges a line and tell us just how either one of those Heat-tempered Twins sold itself and keeps selling itself to you. Months of laboratory tests proved positively that heat-tempered gasolines knock the spots off ordinary good gasolines. Now Sohio's paying real money and big money for confirmation from the road.

I'm standing on my hunch and Cliff and "Midge", my judging pals in this contest, are riding right with me. We absolutely don't believe the letter that's going to cop that swell No. 1 prize has arrived yet. Maybe it hasn't even been posted.

While we read and read and read, we keep wondering where that grand prize is going. Will it light in Cleveland or Cincinnati or some other big town? Or will it bring joy to some suburban home? In the point of volume of letters, anyhow, the farmers and the city lads and lasses are nose and nose.

Mat the time's short, folks. August 2nd, midnight, is the deadline. Until then—step on the Heat-tempered gas!

CHAPTER 16
A Kiss in the Dark

C[illegible]A stretched out a foot [illegible]w Divitt a run in her [illegible] I have no clothes,

[illegible]u won't need clothes—[illegible]ot for this—if you can't [illegible] my name." Divitt in[illegible]ce. "I shan't be around, [illegible] but you and Senorita [illegible]e stopped at the Tijon, [illegible]t want you hollering [illegible]me every time you pass [illegible]e lobby."

"Mister Divitt. It won't [illegible]gain."

"[illegible]es," said Divitt. "I'll [illegible]om. I don't want Molly [illegible]anything about you except [illegible]e engaged an aristocratic [illegible]for Juanita. * * * Keep [illegible]m in Michel street. It [illegible]ful.

"I'll pay you well, according to what you are worth to me. You know I keep my word."

"I keep my word. I do not double-cross you when I skin up the fire escape with the money. I lose you."

Divitt smiled. "You brought the money here to the roulette wheel. I don't say you double-crossed me. I wouldn't advise you to. One of the things I know about you is that you can't drink, or no job."

"A little wine—"

"A little wine makes a babbling goat of you. Do you give me your word? Where's your little gold cross?"

The marquesa hesitated, dived into her bosom, drew out the cross. Divitt pointed to it. "Swear!"

The marquesa held the cross between her palms. "I swear," she said.

Juanita dressed that night with hands that trembled slightly. Kirk had stayed past his time. Juanita felt that he expected to meet some one else, some member of her family, perhaps—desiring some more definite bond than the necklace. He had left finally, with her half promise to go with him to the Comus ball. Would Divitt allow that?

Juanita tucked Mrs. Belaise's ring in a drawer. Tomorrow she would put it on a cord about her neck. It was beautiful, but it was its touch she loved, like the touch of a friend.

Kirk Stanard would not be in the parlors tonight. He was driving Mrs. Belaise and Lorena to their place in Biloxi. "It's as much to get away from the house next door as to give her the sea air," he had explained. Then supposing Juanita would not understand, had added, "Divitt's Parlors. It's no place for Nelly except in mild doses . . . . You, Senorita, would you like to visit the place?"

Juanita had thought not, adding, "You do not play yourself?" Now she would learn why he stood so passively beside the roulette wheel.

He shook his head. "Not roulette," he answered. "Not after the cotton market all day. That's where I'll take you— to the stock exchange! That's the proper place for a girl brought up on bull fights."

She was glad that Kirk would not be there tonight. Soon there might be, as Molly had indicated, a piquancy in offering cigarets to him, knowing that he did not know. (Not to Mrs. Belaise—it would always be difficult with her—but to him.) Something was quickening in her—some bright essential spring that had been choked for days. Tomorrow night, even, she hoped that Kirk would come.

Eric Ledbetter was the first person she saw as she entered the parlors. He sat with a gayly dressed crowd at one of the card tables, a crowd somewhat the worse for gin. Apparently they had just come from some Mardi Gras festivity, for all but one wore bright paper caps.

The one without the carnival spirit sat at Ledbetter's right, a girl with sleepy eyes and a red wind-blown bob, her cigarette hanging from the corner of her mouth, as she rested chin upon hand. Adrian Fouche was not among them, nor did Juanita see Divitt in his place. Gabreau was acting as croupier, and Molly sat in the cashier's cage.

Juanita had made the circuit of the room when Ledbetter spied her and rose, calling in unintelligible jargon. Juanita glanced at Molly, who met her eye without response. Gabreau, behind the roulette wheel not so far from Ledbetter's table, was watching.

Juanita moved among the tables. There were not many in the parlors. Mardi Gras was devouring everything . . . Juanita thought of Kirk, riding along the sea-girt road to Viloxi. She had been glad that he would not be here. She had not known how keenly she would need his smiling eyes . . .

Laughter came from Ledbetter's table. The crowd in paper caps were betting on something—not on the cards. Juanita took advantage of their preoccupation. Molly was not observing her, Divitt was absent. Only Gabreau was watching, and Gabreau would not tell.

She laid the tray on a table and went softly out the side door. It was dim in the court. Juanita paused. Divitt might be about — Umberto . . . She started toward the stair.

Suddenly some one was beside her. Some one with hot, horrible breath was breathing jargon into her ear. Juanita found herself caught and held.

"Let me go!" she commanded, and for an instant it seemed as if she would be obeyed, perhaps from sheer astonishment. Then her veil was thrown aside and Ledbetter's kiss smeared her face. Ledbetter's voice murmured insults. Juanita pressed back his face with her hands, loathing him more than she had loathed Umberto.

"Grosero! Insolente!" she cried, striking his face with her fists. "Hideous pig!"

Ledbetter released her as if she burned him. Juanita flew to the stair. At its top she turned to see Gabreau's squat shape in the parlor door.

To Be Continued.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL
And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go
If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.
For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.
If this bile is not flowing freely, your food don't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas blows up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.
It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.
But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. ©1931, Carter Medicine Company.

Jubilee's Pardner
• • •
A Story of Boyhood Adventure
BY JUDD M. LEWIS

TOMORROW will be Friday. And it is still so hot that I don't believe it will ever be winter any more. I got out of bed and let Jubilee down by his rope and put on my clothes and went down to milk the cows and feed my face and get the cows milked as soon as I could so we could get in the creek under the shade of the trees as soon as we could get there. When I had got the cows milked and was feeding my face and the bunch was waiting for me outside and Feeble and Younias and Maggie hag came, I asted Feeble why she jumped on me when I was having a fight with Ebbie, and she said she was for fair play. She said we had been picking on Ebbie long enough. I told her that two on one wasn't fair play, and then I had to tell the whole family about it, and my father asted who started the fight between me and Ebbie and I said Ebbie did, and then Feeble and I struck the first blow, and my father said, "Did you?" I said, "Yes sir, but not till he called me a munky's orphan." Then everyone hollered and my father said I had to hit him then. Then he said, "You ain't a munky's orphan, are you, son?" I said, "Well, I ain't an orphan." Then everyone yelled again, and my father got red, ears and all. I thought I had better be going then, so we started and when we had gathered up the cows at the vacant lot and were on the way to the pasture and were going past Ebbie's corner there was Ebbie waiting for us. He is a lucky little stinker. When we had got to the pasture and were going in he saw something in the road up past the pasture gate and went and got it and it was a turkie, only Preachy said it was the kind called a prairie turnpin. It isn't like most turkies. The front of its chest sticks up like a tony deer. We played ball with it after we got in swimming, and then Feeble asted him for it and he took it away from us and gave it to her. I said, "Let me see it, Mister Ebbie," and she swung around and shot it at me, and the most here put a curve on it, because it went right between my hands and hit me on the forehead so hard they had to drag me out of the pool and lay me on the bank. When I got home I had a lump there as big as a plum, and my mother put a horseshoe in my mouth to see which was it was or something. She said that some times a blow like that gives a person a concussion of the brain and their temperature goes down, I asted her if mine was down, and she said no, that it was up about eleven of a degree. And the worst of it all was that the same pin got away, and maybe we will never get another one. Feeble told my mother she was sorry she socked me but my mother said she forgave her. Then Younias spoke up and said she would never forgive her. Then they both laughed. Girls are funny.

"Heart of a Wife"
BY ADELE GARRISON

Madge Relents

BOTH Dicky and I stopped short at Lillian's query, whether it was Dicky's idea that he should listen to my third act at once. Secretly I was greatly relieved at her question, for though I had had no time to consider it subconsciously I knew that possible, nay, almost inevitable trouble would arise from reading my third act to Dicky before I had had an opportunity to revise it. Dicky's brow narrowed to a frown, the greatest indication of displeasure which he ever permits himself with Lillian, to whom he owes an old debt of gratitude so great that the chivalrous devoted friendship of a lifetime has not been too much to give in repayment.

"That was my 'little idea,'" he echoed Lillian's words, mockingly. "What might your big idea be?"

Lillian Explains

"I can give it to you in words of one syllable, or thereabouts," Lillian retorted promptly.

"Madge has dictated this thing at white heat. She hasn't any idea herself what it's going to be like. I've typed it, and I say that it's the best thing in its line I've seen for many a day. But she has only my word for it. When she reads it over for revision she's going to be more nervous than any cat, but I hope she's going to be sane enough to see what a really big thing she's done."

"Well!" Dicky demanded aggrievedly, "what's the matter with me acting as shock-absorber?"

"Nothing, except that you'd double in brass and also play the role of a wet blanket," Lillian replied caustically. "Madge, herself, probably would sit up, begging for words of wisdom from your sapient lips. But she mustn't have them until after she's had the chance to go 'into the silence' with the darn thing and revise it to suit her own fancy. When she's done that, if there's any time left before old Phil rings the door bell at three o'clock, then, by all means, have her read it to you. But she ought not be swayed by anything except her own judgment while she's making the first revision. Don't you agree with me?"

As she put the question she whirled upon him with swift challenge in her eyes.

"Did you ever know anybody in all of your iniquitous life who had the temerity to disagree with you?" Dicky retorted sulkily, yet twisting his lips into the reluctant grin with which he usually accepts Lillian's strictures.

"W-ell, 'hardly ever,'" Lillian smiled smugly at him. "But this time I'm most specially right, so run along, lad, and sell your papers. If you can keep your mouth shut and won't make Madge nervous you can sit by and sharpen her pencils while she revises. But don't you dare open your mouth till she finishes, or the beans are likely to be spilled all over the place."

She turned abruptly as she finished, and going into her own room closed the door after her. Dicky and I were left staring at each other.

"Of course, Lil is right," Dicky said dully after a second or two, "I'll be getting along and letting you alone."

My judgment and my common sense urged me to let him go, but there was a little-boy-disappointment in his voice that tugged at my heart and made me throw all considerations but one to the winds.

"You'll do no such thing," I said hotly. "Lillian typed this thing, but after all I dictated it. It's my party, not hers, and if I want you to come and help me revise it I think I'm entitled to the privilege, so come in here with me." I opened the door of my room in-vitingly.

He hesitated. "Are you sure you want me?" he asked.

"Positive!" I answered ashamed that the words while the truth, could not strictly finish the quotation and be called the "whole truth."

His face lightened and as he followed me into the room I guessed that something deeper than mere prideful desire to see what I had written lay underneath his acceptance of my invitation. I believed that there was a fear in his mind of being shut out from this new work of mine.

"Sit down," I said hospitably, but he waited until he had put me into my own chair in front of my desk before he took the seat I had indicated.

"Efficiency Edna"

"Got any pencils to be sharpened?" he asked with a grin. "I must justify myself in Lil's eyes, you know."

"Sorry," I said smiling, "but I have six perfectly sharpened ones."

"I might have known it," he said with a gibing grin.

"If you dare call me 'Efficiency Edna' again I'll throw you straight out of the window," I threatened.

"All right, Inefficiency Inez," he said with a wide grin. "I am at your Majesty's service. I shall speak only when I am spoken to, like all good children. Let the revision proceed!"—Copyright, 1931, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.
